

Player Responsibilities

Training

Attendance and a commitment to train as you wish to play is critical in increasing your chances to improve your game. Attendance at training is one of the selection criteria, and pre-season training is a prerequisite for selection in round 1. If you cannot make a training session, you must advise the coach.

Be prepared and professional. Be on time, wearing WDCC appropriate training gear for the session.

Strive to get the best from every training session and look to do that little extra outside of normal training times.

Set your standards high and encourage team mates to do the same. Support the coaching staff by full commitment to all drills, offer suggestions for improvement rather than complaints.

Go out of your way to show support for juniors or new members who attend the training sessions and give encouragement to enhance a feeling of belonging, and most importantly enjoy the sessions.

Selection

Be available. WDCC prides itself on the professionalism and commitment of its players, and as such expects them to prioritise their team and their club during the season. Players are encouraged to manage their personal life throughout the season proper.

If you cannot be available for selection you are expected to inform your coach and captain well in advance.

Selection nights are compulsory for all players and you are expected to inform your captain and coach if you are unable to attend in advance.

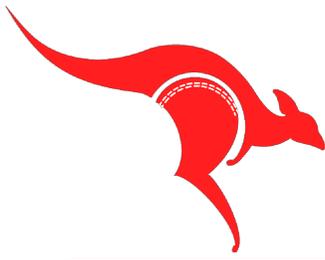

Being selected to play in any grade for our club is a privilege not a right and you must respect the selection panel's decision and acknowledge that the opportunity to improve and be promoted is always the objective at any level of the game.

Fitness issues need to be communicated to captains and coaches...you must be honest and up front if you are not fully fit to be selected. It is unfair for those next in line for selection if you deny them the chance to play...the club and your team mates always come first.

Match Day

We are professional in our approach and ensure we give ourselves the best preparation for match day we can. A half-hearted approach to this not only effects personal performance but effects team performance.

Captains will advise the time players are expected to be present. Players are expected to be on time and organised, wearing appropriate WDCC clothing.

Be mentally and physically prepared and focused on the job at hand. Be honest and up front with team mates and selectors if you are not prepared 100%.

A well-disciplined fitness regime and a healthy nutritional diet will greatly enhance your chances of success as an individual which in turn will enhance team success.

Don't be the one to let your team mates down and be strong enough to accept constructive criticism if you do.

Support your Captain and team-mates regardless of individual results. Respect, acknowledge and thank the coaches, volunteers and supporters that are helping you and your team play to your best.

Fulfil team duties as directed, and be proactive in completing the "one percenters".

Clubrooms and Facilities

Respect and have pride in your Clubrooms and facilities.

Make every effort to attend, promote and support WDCC functions. Give thanks to those outside of the playing group that support our love for the club including Club sponsors.
